ELECTRIC LIGHTS AND WATER WORKS

Statesboro Will Soon Have Both

The Mayor and Council, with the Citizens, have agreed to put Statesboro One More Step Forward.

The Mayor and Council held a meeting with the citizens last Friday, and it was agreed by everybody that the town of Statesboro ought to have water works and Electric Lights. The Mayor and Council will grant a franchise for twenty years to the citizens of the town for this purpose. A corporation will be formed under some name like the Statesboro Water and Electric Co., and in the course of a year the town will have the benefit of both light and water.

Mr. W. D. Davis already has a good artesian well and has pipes in town, and he will no doubt go into the new company with water works.

Larger pipes will be laid and sufficient pressure will be given to be beneficial in cases of fire in town. The citizens will have the advantages of good water at a low rate; and electric lights will be a big improvement over kerosene lamps.

Statesboro will then begin to look like a city sure enough, and will be one more forward step in making Statesboro the best town in all this section.

Every citizen of the town will have the chance to take stock in the enterprise and it will be a home institution.

WALLACE ADDISON

May Be In A Turkish Prison At This time.

His Father Receives Letter Giving Last News of His Son.

Wallace Addison a son of Mr. W. B. Addison of this town enlisted in the army two or three years ago, and was sent to the Philippine Islands on board a transport, along with other soldiers. His father has not heard from him since he left home and has wondered why his son never wrote.

This week Mr. Addison received a letter from John Dykes who enlisted at the same time with young Addison. In the letter which was mailed in Manila in January, Dykes says: "That while at sea several of the soldiers rebelled against the ration served, and in this number was young Addison."

He says that the vessel was stopped at a Turkish port, and young Addison with others, placed in prison, and that this is the last he has heard from him.

Mr. Addison is one of our good citizens, and we hope he will yet hear news of his son.

THE FREAK WAS LOCKED UP.

Waycross' Horned Man Was Dehorned and Spent Last Night in Prison.

The horned wild man from Central America, via, Waycross, Ga., who has been on exhibition in Valdosta for two days, was fined $50 in the Mayor's court this morning for firing his pistol on the streets last night. The alleged freak, who gave his name as Calvin Byrd, proceeded to live up to things with his pistol after the exhibition last night, and was taken in charge by the police. Incidentally the arrest disclosed a very clever fake.

Byrd, who is an ordinary ginger-colored negro, had an incision made in his scalp and a thin piece of metal slipped under the skin. To this piece of metal was attached two upright pieces about half an inch high, over which his horns were slipped and screwed down. They came apparently right out of his head, and the ordinary observer would never have noticed the deception. The tusks, which adorned his mouth were slipped over his eye-teeth and protruded a couple of inches.

Byrd professes not to know the name of the physician who performed the operation on his head. He says he was sick with fever and the doctors opened his scalp to cure the fever, when he was in

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Tax Receiver.

As I have been solicited by a great many men in all sections of the county to be in the next campaign for the office of Tax Receiver, I have decided to accept the nomination. I have been well advanced in age and not well able to work, I have consented to the wishes of my friends, feeling thankful for the kindness and they have shown me in the past, and as I have used all efforts I possibly could to give the people satisfaction in the past; and, if elected again, I will use all efforts to the best of my ability to give full satisfaction and now humbly ask your support in the next Democratic primary election.

was noted in the Chicago work done in the public field of literary com-positions a remarkably high aver-age. This popular progress in language is not surprising, considering the extent to which the newspaper has of late years en-gaged its scope, bringing to every home information concerning art and sciences, which has hitherto been inaccessible, except to the comparative few. It has frequently been declared that this generation must stand before posterity unrepresented by any literary genius worthy of the name. Such a lack would, however, be fully compensated for by the general scholarship which the masses may boast to-day, thinks the Washington Star.

From Virginia come the plaint that the peanut crop is no longer what it used to be. Prices have steadily fallen until now the farmer gets but about seventy-five cents a bushel for his crop; at this rate, it is said, tillers of the soil about Petersburg are no longer able to eke out a living. Even a colony of Bohemians, industrious, thrifty, frugal folk, who give but little of their goods for pleasures or frivolities, have decided to abandon the venture and go further west. Peanuts, it appears, cost from seventy-five cents to a bushel to raise, and to that may be added the further disadvantage of the ex-haustion of the soil. Good crops cannot be grown without exten-sive application of fertilizers, while the cost of this aid to their growth is up what profit might otherwise be.

of Massachusetts are 704, and the percentage upon their investment is a part of the information in a census bulletin, which farming has not sunk into desuetude in the Old Bay State. If Mr. Carnegie is worth anything, the farmers put together, the developments of recent years are all unfavorable, and to those who live with sterile fields and barren homes. For while the cul-ture of grain on a large scale has declined, and there is less improved land there used to be, the gardeners, horticulturists and dairymen are making more money than their pre-decessors who raised cereals. The pro-ductive power of the average farm was never so great as it is now, com-ments the Chicago Record-Herald.

Mr. Carnegie's epitaph, as he called it in Hoboken, namely, "Here lies a man who knew how to get around him a grant many men who were much cleverer than he was himself," re-ports gossip which has been flowing out of Pittsburgh for many years. We have often heard that the man of the Carnegie institution was not Andrew of that ilk; that the true fellow, some concealed genius, who, when he left for other business, would leave Mr. Carnegie exposed as a fraud. The latter had not around him cleverer men than himself, and when they left him his peculiar fame would collapse. Well, we have seen several gentlemen successfully reported to be the mycious force of Carnegieism get out of the business without checking its growth, until finally Mr. Carnegie him-self left, in a blaze of millions, still unopposed and undetected. There is no objection, however, to his starting an academic discussion as to whether the man who attaches a cleverer to himself or the clever man who at-taches himself to another not so clever is the cleverer, observes the New York Sun.

The Little Humpbacked Girl.

O come over here, said Olivia, and I will tell you an Easter tale. There was once a woman who had an only daughter that was very small and pale, and altogether somewhat different from other children. When she took the little one out for a walk the people stood and looked at the child and whispered among themselves. "What a strange little girl," they said. "There must be something inside of such a hump as this."

Some time afterward the mother became suddenly sick and she died on the ninth day. Thereupon the father of the little girl threw himself in despair on the deathbed and asked to be buried with his wife. His friends, however, spoke to him and comforted him, and so he left his wife's body, and a year later he took out himself another wife, who was lovelier, younger and richer than his first wife, but by no means as good.

And from the day that her mother died the little girl spent her whole time from morning till evening seated at the window sill in the sitting room, since there was no one who would take her out for a walk. She had become ever paler than before and she had not grown at all during the latter years.

When her new mother came to the house she said to herself: "Now I will go out walking again in the city and on the beautiful promenades where the sun shines so brightly, where there are so many lovely shrubs and flowers and where there is such a crowd of handsomely dressed people." For she sat in a narrow little alley, in which the sun shone alone, and when she lived on the window sill she saw only a little bit of the blue sky—a bit not larger than a pocket handkerchief. Her new mother went out every day in the forenoon and afternoon, and each time she wore a very beautiful dress, much more beautiful than any dress the first mother had ever owned. But she never took the little girl with her.

Finally the child took heart, and one day she earnestly begged her new mother to take her out with her. The mother, however, refused bluntly, saying: "You are not smart enough. What would the people think if they were to see me with you? You are a little humpbacked. Humpbacked children never go walking but always stay at home."

Thereupon the little girl became very quiet, and as soon as her new mother had left the house she got on to a chair and looked in a mirror and saw that indeed she was humpbacked, badly humpbacked. Then she sat again on the window sill and looked out into the street and thought of her good old mother, who, in spite of her humpback, had taken her out walking every day. Then she thought again of her hump.

"What is inside of it, I wonder!" she said to herself. "There must be something inside of such a hump as this."

Many a strange fancy entered her little head, and many an hour she sat in bed, instead of being straight like the backs of other children, was dis-torted out of all shape by such an ugly hump. The story of her mother's death, her mother had told her came back to her memory, and in childish fashion she sometimes prayed that some good fairy would come and take away the burden that threatened to blight her whole life.

Oh, if she were only like other children. Was there one of them who loved the sunshine and the flowers better than she, and yet among them all was there one who saw so little of the sunshine and the flowers as she did? From her seat by the window she saw the little ones playing in the narrow street, and as their frequent peals of merry laughter came to her ear, her question, "Why am I not like other children?" became ever more urgent.

So the summer passed, and when winter came the little girl was still pale and she had become so weak that she could no longer sit on her window sill, but was obliged to remain lying in bed, and, just when the snowdrops were beginning to peep above ground, the good old mother came to her one night and told her how glorious and beautiful it was in heaven.

The following morning the child was dead.

"Don't weep, father," said the new mother, "It is best for the poor child." And the girl's father answered no word, but simply nodded his head.

The little girl was buried, but on Eastern morn an angel with large white wings like a swan flew down from heaven, seated himself beside the grave, and knocked thereon, as though it were a door. And soon the little girl came forth from the grave and the angel told her that he had come to take her to her mother in heaven. Then the girl asked in a trembling voice whether even humpbacked children could enter heaven. She could not conceive such a thing possible.

Yet the angel answered: "You dear, good child, you are no longer humpbacked," and with those words he passed his white hand over her back and the ugly old hump fell off like a garment.

PROTECT PRESIDENT

Even Attempt to Murder Will Call For Death Penalty.

NOVEL BILL PASSES SENATE

Measure Provides Military Guard for Chief Executive—Other Officials Are Also Under Protection Clause.

Two important measures were passed by the senate Friday, the bill for the repeal of the war revenue taxes and that for the protection of the president of the United States. The revenue bill was passed without division and after only one short speech. Mr. Tillman embraced the opportunity afforded by the bill's consideration to protest against the repeal of the duty of 10 cents a pound upon tea.

The bill for the protection of the president was introduced by Mr. Patterson, of Colorado, made an extended speech in opposition to it and Mr. Fairbanks supported it. All amendments to the measure were rejected and it was passed by a vote of 52 to 15.

The bill provides that any person within the United States who shall wilfully and maliciously kill the president or any officer on whom the duties of the president are devolved, or any sovereign of a foreign country, or shall attempt to kill any of the persons named, shall suffer death; that any person who shall aid, abet, advise or counsel the killing of any of the persons named, or shall conspire to accomplish their death, shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years; that any person who shall threaten to kill the president or any officer on whom the duties of the president are devolved, shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years; that any person who shall wilfully aid in the escape of any person guilty of any offenses mentioned shall be deemed an accomplice and shall be punished as the principal. The secretary of war is directed to detail from the regular army a guard of officers and men to protect the president, "without necessary display," and the secretary is authorized to make regulations as to the dress, arms and equipment of such guard.

KILLED BY PIECEMEAL.

Sensational Facts Brought Out in Courtroom of Walter and Day. A Manila special says: The court-martial appointed to try Major Littleton W. T. Waller and Lieutenant John H. A. Day, of the marine corps, on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial, after receiving a communication from General Chetche, decided that it had jurisdiction in the case and proceeded to try the accused officers. Major Waller pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder, but admitted that eleven men had been killed.

Captain Robert H. Dunlap, of the marine corps, testified that he received information from Lieutenant Ryan and Sergeant Quigley regarding the arrival at Cargadores of prisoners who, while on the march across the island, at roots and parts of plants and refused to assist the marines by giving them similar food. He reported the fact to Major Waller, who was lying in a cot and who ordered Lieutenant Day to take the prisoners and have them shot.

The witnesses said Major Waller was not excited, and had personally expressed his opinion that the prisoners should be shot. Captain Arthur T. Marx, marine corps, representing Major Waller, objected to the testimony of Dr. Love regarding the sanity of Major Waller at the time, claiming that his fitness for duty was of Samarra, and that he was alone. He conceded that Major Waller gave the orders while in his right senses.

It is charged that some of the prisoners were shot serially. It is said that one was tied to a tree and shot in the arm. The next day the Filipino was shot in the leg and on the third day he was shot and killed.

TO SUCCEED HITCHCOCK?

Cabinet Portfolio Awaits Pension Commission's According to Report.

Close personal friends of Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans claim to have information that President Roosevelt will make him secretary of the interior.

It is said Secretary Hitchcock will resign soon and that Evans will be offered his place. This will not only silence the opposition to Evans' promotion, but will be a promotion for Evans. It is said the change will occur within thirty days.

MORE THANKS FROM HENRY.

Prince Sends Special Message to American Embassy at Berlin.

Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia has sent a telegram to the American embassy at Berlin in which the prince says:

"I pray you to accept for yourself and the members of the American embassy my very best thanks for my welcome on my return from the United States."

THE CAMPAIGN LIAR

Lord made all kinds of or the devil might have had in and making the campaign next to the man who was mean ough to plant grass on his grandfather's grave for the goats to feed on, is the man who tells lies on his opponents in politics. No honest man will wilfully tell tales and hatch out lies on his political opponents. It is just as bad as stealing, for in one case you steal a man's goods, and in the other campaign liars could be run down and caught in their acts and get a good whipping in public, it would help the political atmosphere a sight.

If a man runs for an office some liar is ready to say his grand father was a hog thief, or that the candidate was a regular sheep stealing scoundrel. But the days of the campaign liar is playing out, and people can't be fooled by yarns as easy as they were once.

In fact the man who is in the habit of casting suspicion and slurs on his neighbor, is regarded as of no consequence.

Two Kinds of Farming.

The Albany Herald tells this story of two kinds of farming that are to be observed throughout the state:

"The farmer is now enlaving the soil of Georgia with countless tons of commercial fertilizer, and as he strews the long rows with cotton seed his mind is filled with a problem in mental arithmetic. After paying for fertilizer and the planting, shopping and the hoeing, digging the grass and running the mule and cat, and the plowing, taking up the guano notes and cancelling the mortgage on the mule, paying the toll for fencing and ginning, footing the bill for bagging and ties and finally selling the product for whatever the powers that be may see fit to pay, how much will remain to warm the farmer's pocket-et? He thinks of the possible drouths and winds and floods that may come to spread desolation in their wake and sighs because the farmer's lot is this.

"On the other side of the road another farmer fertilizes his field with compost from his own horse lot and plants cotton seed that he had saved from last year's crop and didn't have to buy. He doesn't worry much about the probable price of cotton next fall. His concern is for a pasture full of fat hogs, and fields of corn and peas and potatoes and oats and rye and hay, and droves of fat cattle.
Cotton crop or none, he will come out ahead of the game at the end of the year, and the stocking, in front of his fire place will be full to overflowing on Christmas eve."

It may be added that the farmer who follows the first method can cover more ground and produce larger crops—and therein is the fascination of it—but the farmer who follows the second, though his operations are necessarily on a smaller scale, can show the larger profits at the wind up.

Mr. Fleming Touches Up Mr. Hardwick

Accuses Him of Falsifying the Record in Thomson Speech.

Washington, D. C., March 22.— Congressman Fleming gave out today the following interview:

"I have read Mr. Hardwick's speech made at Thomson on the 18, inst. It contains nothing new in the way of platform or argument, except that he criticizes some of my votes on questions of parliamentary procedure, while conceding my absolute loyalty to my party on every question of principle. As to the parliamentary questions, I have merely exercised honestly my right of individual judgment—a right my constituent, in my opinion, will never require me to surrender.

"There is one point, however, which calls for some notice from me.

"In my published letter of February 12, I exposed Mr. Hard-wick's falsification of the democratic platform of 1884, a falsification perpetrated in order to suit his individual views and necessities as to rotation in office. So complete was the proof that he has not even entered a denial.

FALSIFYING RECORD.
"In his Thomson speech he committed a similar offense by falsifying the contents of the Congressional Record. In his earnestness to bolster up his charge that I have no influence in congress, he said: 'He is greeted with derisive laughter' (those words in quotation marks), 'according to the Congressional Record, with open scorn and with unceasing ridicule by his party associates.'

"There is but one place in the Congressional Record where those words, 'derisive laughter,' occur in connection with any speech of mine. They will be found on page 2094, under date of February 19.
There on that page in print as plain as type can make it stares every reader in the face the fact that the 'derisive laughter' came from the republicans and not from the democrats, and moreover that this 'derisive laughter' was evoked from my political foes by the statement that we hoped to put a democrat in the white house at the next presidential election."

NOT EVEN CHARITY.
"No amount of charity can soften this offense into a mere mistake. This repetition of the same kind of fraud implies not only an obliquity of moral vision, but a shortness of mental vision. He might have known I would expose him again.—Augusta Herald.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

President Buffington, of the Illinois Steel Company, is quoted as saying that while the avenues of success are still largely open to those who come up from the ranks, yet existing conditions are such that the captains of industry during the next generation must come from the number of those who have been specially trained to grapple with the industrial problems of the day.

This candid statement of opinion, coming from one whose influential position in the business world is universally recognized, will no doubt serve to concentrate the minds of thoughtful people upon what seems to be one of the most important topics of discussion which the present century has yet developed. We have managed within the past few years to wrest from Great Britain the palm of industrial supremacy which she has heretofore looked upon as her own by right divine, but we have no guarantee that we can hold the place of preeminence which we have thus gained unless we duly recognize the importance of training up men for the special work of taking charge of our industrial establishments. This observation applies with peculiar force to our own immediate section. We have

BROOKLET IN BRIEF.

Several of the young people of Brooklet attended the wedding of Mr. Chas. B. Griner of Statesboro and Miss Edith Rustin at the home of the bride's father, near Harville.

Miss Belle Caron of Florida is visiting her uncle Mr. John Cromley.

We regret to chronicle the sudden illness of Mr. Jake Prestorius, and wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Taylor of Brooklet and Miss Mattie M'ney near this place were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Sunday.

The young people in and around town are looking forward to Easter with bright prospects.

Say, what's the matter with Rip Van Winkle has he gone to sleep again? We trust that he will not sleep so long as before.

The park and tree committee of Brooklet are beautifying the place by setting out trees and arranging for a park.

Danger of Colds and LaGrippe The greatest danger from colds and laGrippe is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided.
Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous malady. It will cure a cold or an attack of laGrippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by W. H. Ellis.

recently entered upon an era of unprecedented industrial development and we are justified in expecting great things of the future before us, but if we succeed in realizing our magnificent prospects we must put our shoulders to the wheel in downright earnest and we must provide for our young men who are growing up the best educational facilities which our means can possibly supply for training them along practical and scientific lines. If such advice was ever timely, it seems to us, that just now it is certainly so.

Almost every state in the south has taken time by the forelock and appropriated handsome sums for the building up of technological schools and the enlargement of practical and scientific methods of instruction. We cannot do better than to foster such institutions in every way possible, knowing that upon them the prosperity of the future largely depends.—Constitu-

The Long Cotton Gin
Has many advantages, compared with those of modern times. A double roller gin of two lengths, 35 to 5 feet length. The 35 foot gin will gin from 3 to 4 bales in ten hours. The 5 foot gin will gin from 4 to 6 bales in ten hours.

These Gins are Adjustable, in every way, instantly, while running, to suit all classes of cotton. Hackers are raised alike, with one nut or let down with the same. Tension to both blades are given with one nut against rollers. Any pressure desired. Brest of gin adjustable every way. Rollers are the same towards and away from blade up and down, lifted by means of hand wheels. It is all done in a moments time, while running. One man does the work of two. It saves house room, power, oil, labor, length of shaft, pulleys, leather, one crank shaft, for it has but one, and it will gin a thousand bales without being re-adjusted. For further instructions, write to me, the sole inventor.

Manassas, Ga.

P. S. I will not be able to build a very large amount of these gins this season. First come first served.

How To Cure The Grip.
Remain quietly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed and a quick recovery is sure to follow. That remedy counteracts any tendency of the grip to result in pneumonia, which is really the only serious danger. Among the tens of thousands who have used it for the grip, not one case has ever been reported that did not recover. For sale by W. H. Ellis.

Cattle Raising In Georgia.

The day is not far distant when Georgia will become a great cattle raising state. We have everything here to bring it around. This fact is the more emphasized when we turn to other sections where cattle is raised profitably and see the troubles with which they have to contend. For instance, the Denver Republican rises to remark that it has been said that it is unprofitable to feed cattle in Colorado for market because Colorado is not a corn producing state, overlooking the fact that other methods of feeding than those prevalent in Kansas or Nebraska may be profitable. Excellent beef cattle are prepared for market in England and on the continent, and yet the use of corn for feed is but little resorted to. It seems that some of the Western cattle growers are beginning to appreciate this, and to recognize that there may be other means of feeding as good as the use of corn in Kansas. Attempts are to be made to feed cattle in Colorado without the use of a large amount of corn, reliance being had chiefly upon alfalfa, the product of sugar factories and root crops. This is the way, declares our contemporary, in which cattle are fed in Europe, and there does not seem to be any good reason why it should not succeed in the United States. In addition to the kinds of feed mentioned in the discussion of this subject barley is named.
The relative merits of barley and corn for feeding have been considered at Fort Collins experimental station, and while it seems that corn is a little the better of the two, there is not sufficient difference to exclude barley. Should methods of feeding cattle for market be devised in Colorado equal to those in vogue in Kansas and Nebraska, says our contemporary, it would make a revolution in the live stock business in that part of the country to the "Queen City of the Plains."

Here in Georgia we have not only the corn, wheat, oats, barley, the root crops, the grasses—long spring, summer and fall pasturage, almost no housing—but the inimitable possibilities of that wonderful tuber, the cassava, which will grow to perfection from Bibb county to the south.

If black and almost sterile Colorado (speaking comparatively) could make a profitable cattle raising section what shall we say of balmy and fertile Georgia?

And yet our morning beefsteak and our dinner roast, for the greatest part, comes to us in refrigerators from Chicago and Kansas City.

La Grippe Quickly Cured.
"In the winter of 1898 and 1899 I was taken down with a severe attack of what is called La Grippe," F. L.
Hewett, a prominent druggist of winfield, Ill. "The only medicine I used was two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It broke up the cold and stopped the coughing like magic, and I have never since been troubled with Grippe." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can always be depended upon to break up a severe cold and ward off any threatened attack of pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, too, which makes it the most desirable and one of the most popular preparations in use for these ailments. For sale by

Keeper of Blind Tiger run Down.
On Tuesday a negro by the name of Hamel who has been running a store shop in town was arrested and locked up for selling liquor.
It appears that his plan was a regular blind tiger, where both white and black were supplied. Calvin Moring, colored, who has been handling it for Hamel, is also in limbo. From accounts it was a regular blind tiger, and case liquors were plentiful, but the outlook is that Hamel will dig coal for the state for some time to come.

SNAP DOTS.
The farmers are planting their corn and some will plant cotton this week.

We are having a great deal of rain now.

Sunday was a beautiful day some said it ought to have been Easter Sunday.

A large crowd attended preaching at Macedonia Sunday.

We are glad to say the sick of our community are improving.

Mrs. J. K. Brunson, of South Carolina is visiting friends and relatives this week.

Miss Ada Miller, of Mill Ray has been visiting Miss Gertrude Hagins near here this past week.

Miss Essie Ford near Clito has been visiting Mrs. J. H. Brunson for the past week.

Miss Stella Wilson has a flourishing school near this place and is improving rapidly the number of pupils has increased to thirty nine at present.

We have had some sad times for the past week, so many of our friends have died and gone to their home beyond, and left us in this world of sin and sorrow.

IN HIS PULPIT PREACHER IS STRICKEN.

Paralysis Seizes Rev. W. J. Flau-ders, of Lyons, During Services and Death Claims Him.

Lyons, Ga., March 24.—The most shocking death for some time was that of Rev. W. J. Flanders, pastor of the Methodist church at this place which occurred here yesterday. Apparently he was in very good health just before. He started his morning's service as usual at 11 o'clock. He had finished his preliminary service and had only made a few remarks after taking his text when he suddenly appeared very ill and announced that he was unable to continue. He was taken to his room and he could not further conduct the service and requested another preacher to pray. When the prayer was finished he attempted to rise; he staggered and was only prevented from falling by the prompt assistance of Rev. G. K. Guerry, who was sitting close by. It proved to be a stroke of paralysis. He never regained consciousness and passed away last night at 9 o'clock.
His congregation was thrown into a fever of excitement. Everything possible was done for him but to no avail. It was late in the afternoon before he was carried to his home.

The church was crowded all day by relatives and loving friends waiting and anxious to do something for this good man who they knew would soon have to pass into the great beyond.

He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his death, while they have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.—Atlanta Journal.

Rev. W. J. Flanders filled the pulpit of the Methodist church of Statesboro for a year or two and his many friends regret his sad death. He was a native of Emanuel county and was highly regarded.

A Mysterious Death.
Old Mr. Welsh living with his brother Henry Welsh in Bullock near Enal post office, was found dead before the fire one day this week. It seems that they all had been on a carousal for some days and been drinking heavily. The old man who was about 70 years old was discovered dead by a neighbor Wednesday morning and the strangest circumstance connected with the affair is that the dead was allowed to lie right where he died for two days before any report was made to the coroner. As we go to press, the inquest is being held over the remains.—Bryan Enterprise.

RESOLUTIONS
Of Respect Adopted by The Eureka Sunday School On The Death of R. H. Quattlebaum.

Whereas, God in his wisdom has seen fit to take from amongst our highly respected and beloved Sunday School Superintendent, Bro.
R. H. Quattlebaum;

And whereas, in the death of Bro.
Quattlebaum, the family, the church, and the Sunday School, as well as the community, have sustained an irreparable loss.

And whereas, he found special pleasure in the work among the children and young people, we as a Sunday School more keenly realize the loss we sustain in his death.

Therefore, be it Resolved first, that we bow in submission to the will of Him who makes no mistakes, knowing that whatever he does is for our good. Resolved, Second, That we tender our condolence to the bereaved family and assure them of our sympathy in this hour of their great sorrow.

Resolved, third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to sister Quattlebaum, a copy spread upon the minutes of our Sunday School and a copy sent to the Statesboro News and the Bulloch Times, for publication.
